Carl Hiaasen is the author of many adult and children’s novels. At this café station you will learn about some of the endangered species in the Florida Everglades, many of them found in Hiaasen’s books, and their threats and what’s being done to help them.

Work in pairs and follow these directions to go to the Hiaasen Literary Café Endangered Species web page to learn about the Everglades endangered species.

Directions:
1. Go to the LibGuides website, https://libguides.bernardsboe.com and scroll down and select the Hiaasen Literary Cafe.
2. Select the tab on the web site labeled Florida Everglades - Endangered Species.
3. Follow the directions on this web page to choose one specific endangered species and learn about it by finding and reading a database article.
4. Complete the graphic organizer below using the information you learned.

Fill in the graphic organizer below using information you learned from the videos and database article(s) about your endangered species.
Citation information identifies the exact source, in this case, database article, you are using for your research. You should write down citation information any time you are using what you read in a source for your own work, like an essay or slide presentation.

Fill in the citation information below for one of the articles you have read to identify it for your research.

*means a required field - not all articles will have an author

Author:_____________________________________________________________________

*Article Title: ________________________________________________________________

*Source Title: ________________________________________________________________

*Publication Date: ____________________________________________________________

*Date you viewed article: _______________________________________________________

*Name of Database: ____________________________________________________________

(Research in Context, Science in Context or SIRS Discoverer)

*Name of Database company_____________________________________________________________________

(either GALE or Proquest)